

Just a quick update before things get too hectic doing Christmas shopping and all that good stuff!

The CordeenMan (that's me, of course) is going to be in Mesa, AZ (suburb of Phoenix) at the end of January, 2007.

I will be attending and participating in the Marocco/Ballarini Accordion Camp.

On Wednesday night, Jan 24th, I'll be playing on the concert as well as on the Saturday, Jan 27th concert.

Thursday afternoon, Jan 25th, I will be presenting a workshop: "Introduction to jazz improvisation - the musical basics of getting started"

There is still time to register and attend this great accordion event.

You will meet and interact with many fine accordionists, and work with the great Frank Marocco and Nick Ballarini.

You can get all the information, details, and registration forms here:
www.frankmarocco.com

By the way, Frank has a terrific new CD release that he recorded this past spring in Italy called "Be-Bop Buffet".

It is a jazz duet (acoustic accordions, no rhythm section) with the fine Italian jazz accordionist Simone Zanchini.

You really have to hear some tracks to believe what these two fine jazz musicians have put together.

You can listen to sample tracks and read about the recording session here:

I happen to know that Frank just got in a limited shipment of the CD's.. but they won't last long.

If you want a copy for your self, just click on the order button when you're at the web site.

That's it for now.

P.S. it would be great to meet you in person. I hope you can make it to the Accordion Camp.
